DELHI'S HERITAGE & THE NEED TO PRESERVE IT

R. V. SMITH

World Heritage Day (April 18) stirs up memories of the edifices of old which make up so much of our cherished heritage. Take the monuments of Delhi which unfold a fascinating history from ancient times through the medieval period down to the present day. Walk down any street, says Percival Spear (1901-1982), and you will find the legacy of the past staring at you and inviting you to share the experience of the centuries. Delhi has been in existence right from the time of the Mahabharata, though it was known as Indraprastha then and the Purana Qila is said to mark its site. But no trace remains of the castle of Yudhishtira because it was not built of brick and mortar but of wood and could not last that long. Excavations have revealed layers of habitation at the site which go back into the dim past.

The iron pillar near the Qutub, dating back to the 5th century, is the most famous of the ancient relics. Of a later period are Suraj Kund, Anangpur dam and Lal Kot which were built by the Tomars in the 10th and 11th centuries. That was the period when Mahmud of Ghazni invaded the area now known as Meerut, though he did not come to Delhi probably because of the well-entrenched Tomars there. Long after came the invasions of Mohammad Ghori. After his victory in the second battle of Tarain, Ghori left behind the general and former slave Qutubuddin Aibak to carve out a kingdom. But soon after Ghori was murdered and Qutubuddin became the first Sultan of Delhi.

The Qutub Minar is the crowning glory of his age followed by the Quwaat-ul-Islam mosque. Aluddin Khilji's dream of a tower higher than the Qutub could not materialize beyond the first storey but is nevertheless an attraction like his tomb. The tomb was built by his eldest son, Khizr Khan who married, daughter of the Raja of Gujarat, on whom the celebrated Amir Khusro wrote his love poem Ashiqa in 1319.

The advent of the Tughlaks saw the building of the formidable fortress of Tughlakabad which contains the tomb of Ghiasuddin and Jahanpanah or fourth city of Delhi built by his son, the eccentric Mohammad bin Tughlak. Delhi owes a lot to the Tughlaks and their contemporary, the saint Nizamuddin Aulia whose mureed or disciple Mohammad bin Tughlak was, though his father disliked the saint. Firoz Tughlak, as Spear rightly comments, was the royal archaeologist who, besides building his city of Ferozabad with the Kotla holding pride of place, also repaired the monuments of his predecessors, including the Qutub. His love for hunting manifested itself in shikargahs though several mosques, the Begumpur, Khirki and Kalan were among those constructed during his reign. The Hauz Khas Madarasa was also his creation. The Sayyids built various tombs in Delhi and the Lodhis added to them. Bare Khan, Chote Khan's tombs and Bahlol Lodhi's tomb being prominent. During Sikandar Lodhi's time Masjid Moth, Bara Gumbad and Shish Gumbad came up. His son Ibrahim Lodhi built Darya Khan's tomb and Nili Masjid.

Then came the grand Moghuls and it is this period that Spear extols the most. Jamali Kamali's tomb came up during Babar's reign, along with Isa Khan's Masjid, Humayun built his Dinapanah before his flight to Persia. Sher Shah added Qila-e-Kuhna Masjid and Shergarh, Salim Shah, his son, built Salimgarh. Humayun came back to rule India, followed by Akbar and 96 years of Moghul rule with Agra as the capital. During that period Humayun's tomb, Isa Khan's tomb, Arab-ki-Sarai and the tombs of Adam Khan and Atgha Khan were built in Delhi, while the Agra Fort and Fatehpur Sikri came into being in Agra and Jehangir completed Akbar's tomb at Sikandra. Shah Jahan moved his court to Delhi and then the Red Fort, the Jama Masjid and the city, of Shahjehanabad came up. His reign also, saw the completion of Chausath Khamba, Khan-e-Khana's tomb, Fatehpuri Masjid, Shalimar Bagh, Begam bagh and Roshanara Bagh.

LIVESTOCK ENTREPRENEURSHIP THROUGH SKILL DEVELOPMENT

Prof. (Dr.) Vishnu Sharma & Prof. (Dr.) Sanjita Sharma

Livestock sector is an important component of Indian economy. Usually it is treated as subsector of Indian Agriculture. The growth in livestock sector has been faster than crop sector and contribution of livestock sector in agriculture in terms of output, which was 17.3 percent during 1980-81, increased to about one third share in mere three decades. Similarly, contribution of the sector to National GDP has been around 5.5 percent over the years despite pronounced variation observed in contribution of crop sector to National GDP, indicating the stability of the livestock sector. It is estimated that about 70 million rural households own livestock of one species or the other and women constitute about 69% of workforce engaged in livestock sector.

Factors encouraging Livestock development

- Livestock provides best insurance against the vagaries of nature due to drought, famine and other natural calamities and provides a great source of livelihood and employment.
- Owing to high biological value of animal protein, livestock sector plays vital role in providing nutritive food (Milk, Meat, Egg, Aqua) to families both in rural and urban areas.
- Over the last few decades, changed food consumption pattern and variety of animal products and by-products are increasing in daily food platter of common house hold.

Opportunities to promote livestock sector

With the increase in population, demand for animal product is increasing but the supply is constant due to low livestock productivity. This is predominantly due to improper livestock management practices in the areas of cross breeding, fodder technology, balanced feeding, disease prevention, milking Technology etc. along with product processing techniques for Milk, Meat, Egg, Fish, wool, hair, skin etc.

Diversified Hi-Tech Animal farming

Great scope exists for setting up high-tech business with complete automation in different forms of farming, notably, Dairy (cattle, buffalo) Meat (sheep, goat, pig etc.) Egg (poultry). New options are available for farming of non conventional species like rabbit, duck, quail, emu farming etc. Products of these species are in demand for food, medicinal and ornamental values. Future scope exists for organized marketing system for organic meat, milk, wool, yarn etc so that farmer can get premium price for the product.

Value Addition of Animal Products

The share of organized sector is very small. Very large market is in the hands of unorganized sector. There is need to set up schemes for diversification and preparation of value added animal products at the production centers instead of sending raw product over long distances. Shift in eating habits and liking for branded foods needs value added milk, meat, fish and eggs.

Milk & milk products

Milk processing can play a major role in improving milk and dairy product safety, mainly through a variety of heat treatment processes. Great prospects exist as (MSME) micro and small enterprise development to store raw milk in bulk coolers in the rural area and transport it in bigger volumes at longer intervals. Fairly large quantity of milk is converted to local milk products (khoa, paneer, butter, ghee etc), where skill promotion is required.

Meat, Aqua & Egg

Apart from domestic consumption, demand for export of various animal products is rising. Frozen meat dominated the exports & its demand in international market has sparked a sudden increase. There is great scope for export of meat and Poultry products in South East Asia, UAE and Africa. Looking to the available market, potential exists for setting up integrated slaughter & meat Processing units.

DELHI'S HERITAGE...

Aurangzeb added the Moti Masjid of the Red Fort while Bahadur Shah-I built the Sunheri masjid outside it. The Jantar-Mantar of Mirza Raja Jai Singh came up in Farrukseyyar's reign, the second Sunheri Masjid in Mohammad Shah's time, the Qudsia Park and Safdarjang's Tomb in Ahmad Shah's reign. The latter Moghuls, Shah Alam, Akbar Shah II and Bahadur Shah Zafar added to the existing buildings, especially in Mehrauli. The advent of the British saw Metcalfe House, Skinner's Church, Fraser's House and the Town Hall, to be followed by the New Delhi of Lutyens. But despite this vast Heritage, there are some questions awaiting answers.

Why is Matia Mahal so named? In which kotha of Chawri Bazar did Farzana entertain customers before she became Begum Sumroo? Is it true that a white lady accosts the belated just outside the Kashmir Gate at the dead of night? Does a banshee or churai haunt the peepul tree that grows outside the Delhi Gate? Is the narrow passage leading upto a street in Daryaganj, the pathway taken by the sepoys from Meerut to enter Delhi on May 11, 1857? The Kotha in Chawri Bazar does not exist any more, but Matia Mahal, named after Shah Jahan's wife Matia Begum, is still there. Why is Bhure Shah still held in awe and what is the story behind the tomb outside the Red Fort? How many know that Bangla Sahib Gurudwara marks the site of the palace of Mirza Raja Jai Singh of

World Heritage Day

If we look at the past, we find a rich treasure of heritage sites. Some places of outstanding "Universal Value" have been selected by UNESCO (United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization) as World Heritage sites. The term "Universal Value" signifies transcending national boundaries. These sites evoke a sense of wonder and admiration. The examples of world heritage sites are, the pyramids of Egypt, The Great Wall of China, and the Taj Mahal. Among the natural treasures are the Great Barrier reef and the Galapagos Islands.

World Heritage is the shared wealth of mankind. These ageing sites can not be preserved and protected unless there is a collective consciousness and effort to save them. World Heritage Day, which is observed every year on April 18, offers an opportunity to create public awareness to protect and conserve our valuable heritage.

We do not live in the present alone. Past is also an essential component of human existence. Therefore the past also needs to be preserved.

The UNESCO's General Conference held in Paris from 17 to 21 October 1972 adopted the Convention concerning the protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage.

World heritage sites remain the part of the legal territory and boundaries of the country where these are located. UNESCO considers it in the interest of international community to preserve these sites.

The UNESCO felt the increasing threat to the world heritage both cultural and natural. Apart from traditional causes of decay and changing socio-economic conditions, terrorism, wars and social strife in some parts of the world have been posing grave threat to heritage sites. When the UNESCO adopted its convention, it realized that deterioration and disappearance of any cultural or natural heritage meant a harmful impoverishment of the world heritage.

UNESCO also felt that such sites need the resources and expertise of the kind, which may often not be available at the national level. Also, maintaining, increasing and diffusing knowledge by conserving world heritage is included in UNESCO's constitution.

Cultural heritage has been defined as "architectural works, works of monumental sculpture and painting, elements or structures of an archeological nature, inscriptions, cave dwellings and combination of features, which are of outstanding universal value from the point of view of history, art or science. Heritage sites have been defined as, "works of man or the combined works of nature and man and areas including archeological sites which are of outstanding universal value from the historical, aesthetic, ethnological or anthropological point of view".

Heritage sites should be identified and preserved for the future generation. Scientific and technical research and international cooperation is also needed to preserve the heritage.

Jaipur? His seat of Government of course was Amber at that time. Why is Matka Pir so famous and who was he? Is Lal

Bangla, where the Delhi Club is situated, the tomb of Lal Kanwar, the dancing girl who became the mistress of Jahandar

Shah (1711-1712), or is it the last resting place of another Lal Kanwar of the 18th century, the mother of Shah Alam II? All these spots of Delhi lack written information and whatever is known about them is through anecdotes and gossip. But when the old timers die who will be there to keep these legends, imbued with historical fact, alive?

Every monuments has a tale to tell-if you have the patience to listen to it. And it's always a fascinating one, sometimes intriguing too! Delhi has many such buildings dotting the landscape. A lot of encroachment has taken place around them; a few however stand in solitary isolation, amid wild vegetation or desolate tracks. If the colonizers had their way they would not mind bulldozing them as blemishes on the face of time. History alone does not constitute heritage. Culture, language, religious and social traditions and the eco-system too go with it. The need is to preserve all these in an ever-changing milieu. With climate change threatening our very existence the natural assets of the country like its flora, fauna and landscape, also need preservation, for are they not too part of our heritage?

Corrigendum

In the article dated 11-17 April, 2015, The Vision of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar by K.K. Khullar, the third paragraph should be read as follows, "The Constitution of India came into existence on January 26, 1950" (not 1949). The error is regretted
