CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN RETAIL SECTOR

– A. Rajesh

The Indian retail industry is the largest amongst all industries accounting for over 10% of the country's GDP and 8% of the total employment. The retail industry has come forth as one of the most dynamic and fast paced industries with several players entering the market. But, all of them have not yet tasted success as heavy initial investments are required to break even and compete with other players in the sector. The Indian organized retail sector is gradually booming. Modern retail industry has entered into the retail market in India with burgeoning young middle class population, high disposable income, busy shopping malls and multi storied shopping outlets that offer shopping and entertainment under one roof providing a totally unique experience. Large young working population with an average age of 23-24 years, nuclear families, increasing middle-class working women population, opportunities in the services sector are key factors for the emerging growth in the retail sector. The growth pattern in organized retailing and the consumption pattern of Indian population will certainly rise in the coming years with the good Indian economy.

Modern retail industry in India could be worth US $200 billion by 2016. Mobile phone retail industry in India is already a US

$16.7 billion business growing over 25% per year. The future of the Indian retail industry looks promising with the growing of the retail market amidst favourable government policies and with emerging technologies facilitating the operations.

Indian retail scenario

The retail industry in India is for most parts highly unorganized - the typical kirana store with a shop in front of the house and the shop owner's residence at the back - form a majority of the 12 million+ retail stores in India. This has resulted in India having one of the highest retail penetrations in the world. However, organized retail segment is expected to grow exponentially. Today organized retail makes up only 2% of the total available market. Obviously there is a huge potential and opportunity for the organized retail segment. The initial boom in organized retail started a few years ago.

Retail formats in India

Though the organized retail segment is still relatively nascent we have already seen the growth of multiple retail formats. These include malls, discount stores, department stores, multi-brand outlets, hyper markets etc. Most retail formats are differentiated by the area of store space as well as the kind of products that are sold through the stores. Malls are currently the most popular retail destinations in urban areas as they offer both entertainment and shopping options under one roof. Discount stores include factory outlets of popular brands. These are becoming extremely popular in India. India still hasn't matured as a market for fashion trends and people don't tend to shop by seasons. Indians shop mostly based on festivals. Hence a very popular trend is to have people buy clothes that are from a previous season for a discounted price. Value conscious Indian customers give a great deal of importance to price and this is also one of the key drivers of the fast upcoming e-commerce market in India.

Though the retail Industry in India increased disposable incomes. The second key driver is the growth of double income households with both members of the family working. This is expected to drive spending powers in urban areas. However the biggest driver for the projected growth in the retail industry is likely to be the growth in rural markets. 60% of India still lives outside the top cities and growing aspiration of this population are expected driver a consumer pull for consumer durables, fashion, etc. This pull is likely to be augmented by the growth of new media and access to television, internet and other information sources even in the remotest parts of the country.

8. Resolution of Tie-Cases (as per Notice of Examination) : If there were candidates for a particular post having the same aggregate marks in both Paper-I and Paper-II/Paper-III of the Examination then the tie was resolved by referring to the total marks of Paper-II/Paper-III of the examination i.e. a candidate having more marks in Paper-II/Paper-III was given preference, wherever such papers were prescribed. If the tie still persisted then the total marks in Paper-I of the examination were referred to i.e. a candidate having more marks in this Paper was given preference. This procedure was followed by Date of Birth, i.e., the candidate older in age getting preference. Lastly, if the tie still persisted, the tie was finally resolved by referring to the alphabetical order of names, i.e., a candidate whose name begins with the alphabet which comes first in the alphabetical order was given preference.

9. There are 17 candidates in List I (Post Code A/B/D), 20 in List II (Post Code C) and 3 candidates in List III whose candidature have been kept as provisional by concerned regional offices but are also included in the Select List. Concerned RDs/DDs will be required to check the eligibility of such candidates thoroughly before their nomination.

10. The above said Lists are purely provisional and subject to the recommended candidates fulfilling all the eligibility conditions prescribed for the respective post in the Notice of Examination and also subject to thorough verification of their identity with reference to their photographs, signatures, handwritings, etc., on the application forms, admission certificates, etc. The candidature of the candidates are liable to be cancelled by respective Regional Directors in case candidates found not fulfilling the eligibility conditions or any other genuine reasons. Commission undertakes post examination analysis and candidature of provisionally selected candidates is liable to be cancelled if they are, prima- facie, found to be involved in unfair means based on such analysis.

11. For candidates belonging to reserved categories for whom certain percentage of vacancies are reserved as per Government Policy, the category status is indicated against their Roll Numbers. It is important to note that some of these candidates have been declared qualified only for the category mentioned against their Roll Numbers. If any candidate does not actually belong to the category mentioned against his/her name, he/she may not be eligible to be included in the list. It is, therefore, in the interest of the candidates concerned to immediately contact the respective Regional Office of the Commission in all such cases where they do not belong to the category shown against their Roll Numbers.

12. Detailed result of this examination is available on SSC's Website: <http://ssc.nic.in>. Marks of qualified and non-qualified candidates with details of their options, preferences, mistakes in skill test are also placed on the website.

Career Opportunities....

focused on stores and operation that employ 75-80% of people resource. Merchandising would make up 5-8% of the workforce and others-10-15%.
 If one were to look at the distribution of people by employment levels, one would find that 10th standard and below make up 15% of workforce, 10th to 12th about 40% of workforce, diploma holders are about 10% of staff with graduates and post graduates making up 35 % of the remaining workforce.
 There is thus a huge opportunity for semi-skilled and skilled resources that haven't completed formal education to make a career in the retail industry. Store operations as a function can be extremely challenging yet gratifying. Each store can be viewed as stand alone business in itself and this enables each and every store employee to understand the goals of the store and work towards achieving the same. Graduates, who are interested in meeting people and salespersons can explore this option. They would get exposure to handling his/her staff and customer satisfaction in a dynamic store environment. In couple of years' time, they can move up to retail operations role. Merchandising is something that is involved understanding the customer and leveraging one's creativity to capture the shopper's attention to drive up product sales. They give the requisite 'look n feel' to the brand. Anyone with an open and creative mind can explore this career path. MBA's interested in merchandising domain can look at careers like merchandise planners. Merchandise planners are generally responsible for the marketing strategy; financial numbers and allocation of merchandise each store.
 A very interesting thing to note about career opportunities in the retail industry is the fact that organized retail is not just growing in the 8 mega cities but also in other towns like Kanpur, Surat, Jaipur, Lucknow, Nagpur, Bhopal, Coimbatore. Amritsar, Jalandhar, Ludhiana, Chandigarh and Faridabad. This reduces the need to migrate from one city to another to make a career in retail. Typically the retail industry hires those who are graduates or have completed their 12th as customer service assistants/executives.

Candidates, who love interacting with people and are energetic, should explore this. Most people in transaction process at the store and those who perform the role of merchandising and purchase assistants are 10th pass with experience. Most managerial roles like department manager, Merchandise planner and purchase manager require graduate and post graduate qualifications. With the growth of private label merchandising, multiple roles like product development are evolving. Most of the roles in this domain involve working with marketing, designers and manufacturers. For those looking to make their careers in retail, there is a unique opportunity to ride a wave of industry growth to achieve career aspirations. The opportunities in retail industry lie across various skill sets and various levels. The critical success factor for anyone looking to make a career in this industry is the same as that with any other industry- Passion & Perseverance. Those with a passion for retail and the perseverance to strive hard are bound to see success in this industry.

A kirana of one's own

India's kiranas, or small general stores, fear the country's decision to allow Walmart and other foreign companies to invest in grocery stores and other kinds of retailers will hurt their businesses.

They should go to Bangalore and talk to Nandini. She might brighten their mood. Nandini, who lives in Indiranagar, was at Aditya Birla Group's More retail store, eyeing the detergents when I interviewed her about the new rules on foreign direct investment (FDI).

"Things here are more attractive," she said. "You can see more options, but for my daily chores I always run in to our local shop nearby."

"Many Indians find it more convenient to call upon their nearest kirana 'uncles' rather than rushing to a posh housing development to buy rice or noodles at the Big Bazaar or Star Bazaar."

Fearing that kiranas and other homegrown retailers will suffer at the expense of big, foreign investors exploiting India forced a large nationwide strike. The move, aimed at resuscitating India's economy, also was one of the reasons that the coalition government that rules India just lost one of its main allies. They shouldn't worry, experts said. "Local shops have co-existed with the organised retailers. They are now already selling private labels of these retail chains," said Ernst & Young retail and consumer partner Paresh Parekh. "India is a big market. There is room for

of the new investment rules, kiranas might benefit from difficulties that the big companies have in retail: poor infrastructure, high real estate costs, inefficient supply routes, difficult tax laws and rigid labour rules. Chennai-based Subhiksha, which one operated 1,600 outlets selling groceries and everyone. "India retail is a $435 billion business, according to a study by global consulting firm AT Kearney and cited by Macquarie Equities Research.

Modern trade accounts only for seven per cent of that, according to the report. While that could rise to 20 per cent by 2020 because medicines to mobile phones across the country, shut down in 2007, primarily because of a cash crunch. Vishal Retail went bust after several attempts to revive itself. According to news reports, Kishore Biyani's Future Group, which runs Big Bazaar, Food Bazaar and Pantaloon retail stores among others, is sitting on a debt of more than Rs 6,000 crore ($1.13 billion). Aditya Birla Group reportedly lost Rs 423 crore ($79.4 million) last year. While much-needed capital to fund their expansion plans is likely to come through foreign investment, the Macquarie report said opposition from some several state governments will slow the process.

"Even well funded business groups have not been able to grow their retail businesses rapidly," the report said. "Similarly, despite its global expertise, Walmart hasn't been profitable in China for last 12 years."

On the other hand, sources in the Indian fast-moving consumer goods business (toiletries, soft drinks, foods, etc) said they will still continue to depend on selling their products through kiranas because most of their customers live in rural areas where organised retail outlets haven't opened.

"It will be hard to ignore the other 93 per cent of the market," said an official who works with a popular Indian company in this business, but declined to be identified because he did not have authority to speak about the topic.
