EMPOWERING RURAL YOUTH THROUGH SKILL TRAINING

—Sanjay Chittora and Anupama Sharma

A major feature of the Indian labour market is that it is overwhelmingly unorganised and informal. According to NSSO, 92% of the country's total workforce - about 42 crore people - are currently employed in the unorganised sector. This proportion is estimated to increase to 94% over the next decade. In sectors such as agriculture, construction, manufacturing, hospitality, transportation and warehousing sector, the workers often enter with low or no skills. The industry gives little opportunity to on-job skill upgradation. While a few manage to build up their skills and grow, a majority of the workers continue unskilled work till the time a fresh batch of cheaper workers replace them. The workers are forced to either change the sector or continue in low skill and consequently low wage employment. This situation threatens to make youth who are the core of our demographic dividend into a mass of unemployed and unemployable workforce.

Migrants form a major part of the unorganized workforce. Agrarian distress, natural disasters, poverty and unemployment has led to unprecedented rate of migration from rural to urban or prosperous rural areas. States with lower per capita income like Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Odisha have emerged as large contributors to the unorganised-unskilled work force. The employers prefer migrant workers as they become available for long hours at low wages and can be intimidated into giving up their entitlements due to lack of support from government or labour organisations. The workers have limited access to welfare services of the state and as they are disenfranchised they have no hold over local governance.

Aajeevika Bureau, an NGO based in Udaipur, operating in the Southern Rajasthan region, has been set up to provide solutions, services and security to migrant workers who leave their villages to find work in cities, factories and farms. Skill training is one of the core services offered by the bureau, which focuses on marginally educated tribal youth from the region. The skill training and placement work of the bureau is anchored in the STEP Academy dedicated specifically to bringing skills and job options to rural youth. Aajeevika bureau believes that the best way to reduce the vulnerability of the migrant workers and make their livelihood choices more viable is to empower them through rigorous skill training and connect them to more stable and lucrative employment opportunities.

Challenges

Even though skill training holds the promise of immediate rewards for workers, it is an intervention fraught with considerable challenges. The STEP Academy promoted by the bureau has understood these challenges and has attempted several measures to overcome these. Perhaps the most serious challenges in providing young workers an opportunity to learn a skill after they have entered the market is that they find it hard to sacrifice wages in favour of being trained. Each day spent in training has an immediate consequence of forgoing earning. Given their socio-economic context, where they are responsible for providing for their families from an early age, this tradeoff is not an easy one. The workers find it difficult to miss work days and come for training to a distant location. In many poverty stricken rural areas migration for livelihood begins at an early age (14 - 16 years) and this removes a large number of youth from the domain of training at an appropriate age. Also early migration negatively affects the hopes and aspirations of youth, pushing them to believe that they cannot really learn anything new and will remain caught at the bottom end. Low education levels among young migrants hinder their advancement and market confidence. Being unskilled, their earnings stagnate at a relatively early age and this in turn suffocates their urge to acquire new skills or develop their talents. The cycle of early age migration, poor skills and consistently low wages is most compelling in young workers of tribal backgrounds.

It is an unfortunate paradox that the labour market needs skilled workforce but it does not adequately compensate for the time and effort involved in acquiring the skills. Also the labour market is harsh for entry level skilled worker and therefore discourages them from leaving their jobs even though they are unskilled and unstable. As an example, a newly trained plumber is likely to earn Rs. 120 per day as a trainee - remuneration; an electrician starting up will earn about the same and an entry level trained hotel worker is likely to remain a trainee for nearly a year. On the other hand an unskilled construction worker is likely to earn more than Rs. 150 per day at the least. Skilled workers start working at a comparatively lower pay than their unskilled counterparts. The point where their skills are rewarded arrive after they have proven and established themselves in the market. In such market conditions it is harder to convince rural youth that the time and effort spent on upgrading their skills will be worth the wait of a year or so.

Along with the construction, sectors like small manufacturing, mining, head-loading and transportation employ unskilled workers where they face hazardous work conditions and are subject to constant mistreatment. In order to improve their work and living conditions it is important to help them diversify through placements in other sectors or skills. However in many cases workers caught in highly insecure and hazardous jobs find it difficult to step out to more stable occupations if they are located further away from home or if they require a high degree of regimentation. Family conditions of poverty and frequent illnesses, cultural traditions and fear of the unknown, discourages youth to migrate further away for a longer period of time. This prevents easy diversification away from tougher and lower end jobs.

A Suitable Response

In most cases, rural youth have little idea, information or exposure to the range of emerging skills and lucrative employment opportunities. They have little access to good counselling and guidance that can help them take a decision favourable to their longer term success in the labour market. Also their communication confidence, awareness of their rights, negotiation and bargaining skills are usually low - these limitations pose major challenges in the advancement of rural workers on the value chain.

Through its STEP Academy, the Aajeevika Bureau offers a month long intensive training course in various skills pertaining to construction, hospitality, light engineering and other services. The STEP Academy combines technical and life skill training for overall personality development. Despite the challenges mentioned above, the bureau has trained youth in plumbing, hotel and hospitality and house wiring, motor driving, mobile

Focus on Jammu & Kashmir

The high economic growth in the country over the last decade has created tremendous employment opportunities for educated youth in major cities of the country and in tier 2 cities. The state of Jammu & Kashmir has also shown high economic growth. However, it has not been able to meet the aspirations of the population especially youth in the state.

To focus on job opportunities for youth of Jammu & Kashmir, Employment News is launching a special series in February/March 2013 with the message from Hon'ble Jammu & Kashmir Chief Minister, Sh. Omar Abdullah. The series will focus on Rangrajan Committee constituted for suggesting employment strategies in Jammu & Kashmir. It will also include article on Udaan, a unique project for unemployed in the state. The series will also take a look at training programmes on skills upgradation besides focusing on employment in tourism, hospitality, handicrafts, ITES and BPO.

There is a separate selection process for each of the disciplines listed in Table-1 except for RSE (code 44), which is available only as an additional option to applicants for Physics and Chemistry disciplines (codes 41 and 42).

1. Screening for the Engineering disciplines (codes 21-29) is based on two alternative methods:

(a) Cut-off GATE Score (GATE-2013) for short-listing candidates for Selection Interviews will be declared on the Online Application Portal for Engineering disciplines, in the first week of April, 2013 after the last date for receipt of applications. Candidates in Civil Engineering will be short-listed for Selection Interviews only on the basis of a valid GATE-2013 Score.

(b) Online Test: It will be conducted in each of the seven Engineering disciplines (codes 21-27) except Civil Engineering (Code 29). Candidates who do not have a GATE-2013 Score or who do not qualify on the basis of a GATE-2013 Score may take the Online Test. Travel Allowance is not paid for appearing in it. Online Test will be held in the end of April 2013.

2. Screening for Science disciplines (codes 41-43 & 45-46) is based on two alternative methods:

a) Written Test: It is conducted in each of the above mentioned disciplines (codes 41-43 & 45-46). Travel Allowance is not paid for appearing in it. Written Test is scheduled on Sunday, February 24, 2013.

b) GATE Score: In this case, merit list in each of the Science disciplines (codes 41-43 & 45-46) is prepared on the basis of a valid GATE-2013 Score of the applicants. Cut-off GATE Score and Written Test marks for short listing candidates for Selection Interviews in each discipline are decided after the last date for receipt of applications.

c) Science candidates have the option of utilizing either one or both of the screening avenues detailed above.

d) Students graduating with a Masters Degree from University of Mumbai - Department of Atomic Energy Centre for Excellence in Basic Sciences (UM-DAE CBS) and National Institute of Science Education and Research (NISER), Bhubaneswar, and whose Cumulative Grade Performance Average (CGPA) is greater than or equal to 7.5 on a scale of 10 will directly be screened into the Selection Interview stage, provided they meet all other eligibility requirements of the OCES/DGFS-2013 program. Such candidates should first apply for OCES/DGFS-2013 program on the Online Application Portal and subsequently forward their details through the Directors of their institutes.

Selection Interviews of short-listed candidates will be conducted in BARC Training School, Mumbai. Outstation applicants will be paid to-and-fro second-class sleeper train fare by shortest route or actual fare, whichever is less. Probable period of Selection Interviews is during May-June, 2013. Names and Selection Interview dates of short-listed candidates in Science disciplines will be declared on the website <http://oces.hbni.ac.in> in the second week of April, 2013. Short-listed candidates in Engineering disciplines, qualified on the basis of a GATE score will be able to choose an Interview slot, based on availability, on the website designated for Online Applications in the Engineering disciplines, in the second week of April, 2013 onwards whereas short-listed Engineering candidates qualified on the basis of Online Test will be able to choose an Interview slot based on availability on the same website in the second week of May, 2013. A link to the website for Online Applications in the Engineering disciplines will be provided on the website <http://oces.hbni.ac.in> after March 1, 2013.

Final Selection is solely on the basis of performance in Selection Interview, subject to medical fitness. EMPOWERING RURAL YOUTH ...

repairing, and many more. Over the past 6 years, the STEP Academy has trained youth in various vocational skills and provided them with job placements. The trained youth are able to enter and negotiate better jobs and wages with the training provided. Life skills training during this one month period has helped trainees deal with the workplace requirements with more effectively with confidence and assertiveness. There is a constant attempt to make trainings more relevant, practical and interesting to the participants so that they remain fully involved and are able to use their learning beyond the training event. In order to help rural migrants, especially younger workers/ break into the new/ more skilled niches of the market, STEP conducts vocational training and up-gradation in a variety of skills. It has devised special programmes and modules aimed to include those who do not have enough time to invest in long term trainings and who cannot afford disruptions in their earnings. Rural youth identified through bureau's field centres as well as through its partner agencies are provided with hands-on training opportunities. Trainings are conducted in all the field centres of the bureau and often in collaboration with other training institutions who have the infrastructure and expertise for this unique group of young learners. The STEP Academy has facilitated training in the following skills:

Construction

Plumbing

House Wiring

Marble and Tile Fitting

Light Engineering

Motor Winding

Home Appliance Repair

Mobile Repair

Hospitality & Hotel Services

Housekeeping

Catering

Cooking

While sound technical training is at the heart of STEP Academy's work, there is considerable emphasis on building positive values, leadership, life skills and aspirations in the trainee youth. The residential programme provides a rich variety of experience based learning for improving enquiry, creativity, team work/and confidence and communication skills among youth. The time spent at the STEP Academy is intended to help youth to succeed as good workers and entrepreneurs.

The STEP Academy serves as the node of finding and disseminating regular information on jobs, openings and vacancies amongst its clients. It continuously scans markets and is also approached by a wide number of employers looking for workers in various positions. If considered suitable in terms of offer and work conditions, STEP disseminates the information through Aajeevika bureau's field teams across their areas of operation. The STEP team also counsels youth in making appropriate career or training choices. Almost all trainees of STEP are provided a one-time placement opportunity at the conclusion of their training. In case of their drop out or retrenchment, trainees are provided with additional connections and networks for ensuring that they remain in the job markets.

The STEP Academy spends nearly Rs. 5000 per trainee per month for residential training -this amount is far more than what the trainees are able to pay themselves. Ideally a trainee should be able to earn the amount spent on him within a couple of months and thereafter have a skill at hand to be able to earn a better livelihood. At an institutional level, the STEP Academy of the Aajeevika Bureau feels that it is not possible to make skill training for rural youth from low income backgrounds a revenue-based model and for the foreseeable time period will require to be subsidised.

This important section of society can no longer be ignored. From various quarters there have been requests to Employment News to publish information on employment opportunities for them. Employment News will focus on this aspect from January 2013 by launching a new column called "Ability Brings Employment".
