India's National Security - Challenges and Priorities

- P. Chidambaram

Until recently, we had taken a very compartmentalised view of national security. Each threat to national security was neatly fitted into one compartment. The first, of course, was a war with Pakistan. That was fitted into a compartment and was meant to be deterred, or defended, through the might of our armed forces. A war with China was, and remains, unthinkable and therefore that threat was fitted into another compartment and reserved to be dealt with through a mixture of engagement, diplomacy, trade, and positioning adequate forces along the borders. Beyond Pakistan and China, we did not perceive any external threat to our security. Other threats such as communal conflicts, terrorism, naxalism or Maoist violence, drug peddling and Fake Indian Currency Notes (FICN) were bundled together under the label "threats to internal security" and were left to the Ministry of Home Affairs. Some threats were not acknowledged at all as threats to national security and these included energy security, food security and pandemics.....

A close examination of the threats to national security will reveal that each one of them is connected to one or more other threats. For example, the threat of terrorism is connected to the threat of proliferation of arms including weapons of mass destruction. The threat to the security of our sea-lanes is connected to the threat to energy security. Low intensity conflicts have a direct bearing on social cohesion. Technology security will be the key to building new institutions. Natural disasters, especially those caused by climate change, can wreck food security. Pandemics and diseases, if uncontrolled, can diminish our capacity to defend the borders against our adversaries or to defeat the militants within the country. National security is, therefore, caught in a complex spider's web and unless we recognise that each strand of this web is connected to other strands, we would not be able to do justice to our fundamental obligation to protect and defend the security of the nation.

Defending and promoting national security stands on three important pillars: firstly, human resources; secondly, science and technology; and thirdly, money. I have placed money last, not because it is the least important, but because it is the most important pillar of national security. Without money, we cannot nurture and build our human resources. We need schools, colleges, universities, libraries, laboratories, skill development institutions and, above all, highly qualified teachers. It was in the sixth decade of independence that we were able to pass a law on the Right to Education. Only now we have been able to achieve near-universal enrolment of children in school, but there are still problems in retention and, according to 2010-11 statistics, only 73 percent of children who enrol in class I complete five years of schooling and only 59.4 percent complete eight years of schooling. Despite having 32,987 colleges and 621 universities, the Gross Enrolment Ratio is only 18.8 percent. The shortage of teachers at the elementary school level is estimated at 800,000. According to the Ministry of Human Resource Development we need 20,000 more colleges and 1500 more universities if we aim to provide post-school education to all the children who complete school. The Central Government spends only 0.67 percent of GDP on education (2010-11), and that includes all heads of expenditure that could be broadly brought under the subject 'education'. It is estimated that all the State Governments put together spend another 2.38 percent of GDP on education (2010-11). The percentages may appear modest, but the absolute amounts are quite large. Nevertheless, the average child enrolled in class V has only attained the competence of a child in class II. At the other end, none of our universities figure in the top 200 universities of the world.

Infant mortality rate is still at 44 per 1000 live births, maternal mortality rate is at 212 per 100,000 live births and, on both counts, we will not achieve the millennium development goal. Life expectancy has increased from 59.4 years in 1991 to 66.1 years in 2011, but during the same period the child sex ratio has declined from 945 girls to 914 girls per 1000 boys. The expenditure of the Central Government on 'health care' is 0.31 percent of GDP and State Governments spend another 0.60 percent of GDP. Thus, on education and health, the total Government expenditure is below 4 percent of GDP. Other emerging economies spend much more. For example, Brazil (9.1 percent), South Africa (9.6 percent) and China (5.9 percent) spend much more. If we can create the fiscal space that will allow us to spend an additional one percent every year amounting to an additional four percent over the

Tourism : Catalyst for Socio-Economic Progress

- Prof. Shabir A. Bhat

The demands put up by 21st century entail upon all the universities to adopt a more aggressive approach for the implementation of innovative programs and policies in the field of higher education. Universities have to adapt to the emerging knowledge based economy in which new demands and expectations present significant challenges and more importantly great opportunities. Since competitive excellence is going to be at the forefront of this century, higher education institutions, as we know, will be required to offer courses that are relevant to the present and future requirements of the industry and enhance the employability of graduates through development of appropriate skills. There is a need for academia-industry interface and to remove the uneasy relationship that exists between the two. Cruising along the difficult times, Kashmir University has in its own humble way contributed not only to the academics and research but to the socio-economic and human development.

Kashmir University has recently launched two new flagship programmes " Masters in Travel and Hospitality Management and Masters in Craft Management and Entrepreneurship." The Flagship programmes on Tourism and Craft

Management are considered to be new as well as international context. The objective of the programme is to provide best possible education and training, comparable to any premier institution in the country and establish visionary leadership for the growth and development of tourism and craft industry. The valley of Kashmir to which nature has bestowed with innumerable natural resources and rich cultural heritage is a world famous tourist attraction. In spite of having tremendous tourism potential we have failed to get our due share of tourist clientele. The reason for this can be cited as many, but one of the major reasons undoubtedly remains the lack of trained and professional manpower in the field of tourism. Tourism and hospitality management education is of vital importance in developing the requisite manpower in tourism industry. Having realized the importance of tourism, many universities are now offering post-graduate, graduate and diploma courses in this field. Government on its part is also actively involved in education and training the stakeholders of tourism. Therefore, realizing the dearth of educated tourism professionals. The University of Kashmir has also launched a post graduate degree in tourism. The programme is being initiated keeping in view the growing importance of the Tourism Industry. This programme is designed global industry of tourism and taking care of its multifaceted management problems.

► Master in Travel and Hospitality Management (MTHM)

Tourism one of the world's largest industries is a principal catalyst of global economy and one of the most important tools for socio-economic development throughout the world. Tourism has emerged as a key driver of socio-economic progress through export revenues, the creation of jobs and enterprises, and infrastructure development. As per UNWTO (2012), its contribution to inbound tourism, including passenger transport, exceeded US$ 1.2 trillion in 2011, or US$ 3.4 billion a day on average. Tourism exports accounted for as much as 30% of the world's exports of commercial services and 6% of overall exports of goods and services. Globally, as an export category, tourism ranks fourth after fuels, chemicals and food. Tourism's contribution to worldwide gross domestic product (GDP) is estimated at some 5%. Tourism's contribution to employment tends to be slightly higher and is estimated in the order of 6-7% of the overall number of jobs worldwide (direct and indirect). All countries throughout the globe are vying to secure the best share of tourism. States, regions, countries and even continents are looking at this industry to fight with their problems of unemployment, poverty and travel and hospitality activity is one of the most important sectors for its economy and employment. It is one of the fastest growing sectors in the state and plays an important role in the overall economic development. Tourism activity in Kashmir has found a niche for itself as an effective instrument for employment generation, revenue and foreign exchange earnings, preserving culture and tradition thereby facilitating overall development. Keeping in view the growing importance of the Tourism and Hospitality Industry the Masters programme in Travel and Hospitality Management has been started as an Independent Course in University of Kashmir from the academic session (2012-13), under The Business School, Faculty of Commerce and Management Studies. This Master's Degree programme focuses on the understanding of the Travel and Hospitality industry with detailed operational aspects through projects, presentations, selective case studies and discussions, besides regular sessions.

The course includes papers on Tourism and Management along with Foreign Language instruction, field trip to some known tourist destinations within India and hands-on-work experience in tourism provided through on-the-job training

Two institutions that play a key role in influencing the scope of budgetary spending by the Union Government and State Governments are Planning Commission and Finance Commission. The Indian Constitution provides for the necessary institutional framework, financial and functional division of responsibilities between the Centre and the states, and a defined mechanism for inter-governmental transfer to address the existing vertical and horizontal imbalances.

Vertical imbalances refer to the mismatch between the revenue-raising capacity and expenditure needs of the Centre and the States. Horizontal fiscal imbalances exist on account of the inability of some States to provide comparable services due to inadequate capacity to raise funds. To address these imbalances, the Finance Commissions have been given a constitutional mandate to decide on (i) the proportion of tax revenue to be shared with the States and (ii) the principles which should govern the grants-in-aid to States.)

There are three main channels that govern the fiscal transfers from Centre to state. First, the Finance Commission determines the state's share in Central taxes and grants out of the Consolidated Fund of India. Second, the Planning Commission makes recommendations on the magnitude of grants and loans to be provided to the states for financing their expenditure on the targeted interventions for socio-economic development. Third, Central Sector schemes and Centrally Sponsored Schemes (CSSs) are designed by various Central government ministries in consultation with the Planning Commission, in which, the Centre's funds are transferred to the states implementing the schemes.

Finance Commission

Articles 270, 273, 275 and 280 of the Constitution of India provide for the formation of a Finance Commission (at the interval of every five years) to recommend to the President certain measures relating to the distribution of financial resources between the Centre and the States. Hence, the President appoints (at the interval of every five years) a Finance Commission comprising five members, including the Chairman, following certain Constitutional guidelines (about the qualifications/experience of the people to be appointed as members). The First Finance Commission was constituted in 1951, which had submitted its report in 1953 (Refer to table 1 for list of Finance Commissions in India).

Recently, the 14th Finance Commission has been constituted. The recommendations of this Finance Commission would be implemented by the Centre during 2015-16 to 2019-20.

The most important recommendations made by the Finance Commission are those relating to: the distribution of the tax revenue mobilized under the Central tax system between the Centre and the states; the allocation of the respective shares of such tax revenue among the different states; and the principles which should govern the grants-in-aid for the states to be provided out of the Consolidated Fund of India.

Planning Commission

The Planning Commission is not mentioned in the Constitution of India. It was set up as an advisory and specialised institution by a Resolution of the Government of India in March 1950. The Planning Commission has the responsibility of making assessment of all resources of the country, augmenting deficient resources, formulating Plans for the most effective and balanced utilization of resources and determining priorities.

The Prime Minister of the country is the Chairman of the Planning Commission. The Deputy Chairman and the full time members of the Commission, as a composite body, provide advice and guidance to the different subject Divisions (in the Planning Commission) for the formulation of Five Year Plans and Annual Plans, both at the national level as also for different States.

The Planning Commission is supposed to work under the overall guidance of the National Development Council. The working of the Planning Commission led to the setting up of the National Development Council (NDC) in 1952, as an adjunct to the Planning Commission, to associate the states in the formulation of the Plans. Since mid-1967, all members of the Union cabinet, Chief Ministers of States, the Administrators of the Union Territories and members of Planning Commission have been members of the NDC. The role of the NDC in determining the Plan priorities is critical as it integrates the views and expectations of the State Governments.

The most important suggestions made by the Planning Commission are those relating to: the magnitude of funds to be given from Union Budget to different States and Union Territories as 'Central Assistance for State and UT Plans', and the magnitude of funds to be given to Central Government Ministries/Departments for Plan expenditure on the Central Sector Schemes.

The Planning Commission makes an assessment of the availability of own resources with a State Government and its capacity to utilize Plan funds before finalizing the size of the State Plan. Once the size of the State Plan is decided, the Planning Commission recommends the Centre to provide some financial assistance to the State for its State Plan, which is also formula-based.

Both the institutions, i.e. Finance Commission and Planning Commission, play equally vital roles in terms of devolving funds and working towards reducing regional imbalances in the country. While the Finance Commission is constituted periodically and works for a couple of years (before it submits its Report), Planning Commission ensures that continuous appraisal and adjustments that are essential in the dynamic process of planning for a country as diverse as India is taken care of.

SKILL DEVELOPMENT FOR BETTER JOBS

- Bikas Singh

Skill development has become the buzzword in Northeast India. Effort is now on to make huge manpower available in Northeast India into an employable force. Taking step in this direction, Government of Assam and Pearson recently announced a joint initiative to provide vocational skills training for young people in schools in Assam. This public-private partnership will serve as a platform for the introduction of the National Vocational Education Qualification Framework (NVEQF), a ambitious national program to integrate skills, training and qualifications in schools. Under this initiative, Pearson will set up vocational skills centers in 10 specially-selected government schools, initially offering two training streams, in retail and computer hardware and IT. The design and implementation of the program has seen close collaboration between all stakeholders, from teachers, academic administrators, students, and trainers as well as officials from Assam. The courses will be introduced for students in standard IX in August 2012, before moving into higher classes with a wider portfolio. Assam Chief Minister, observed: "I am proud to say that Assam is leading the way in India in preparing today's generation for tomorrow's world. President, Pearson India, said: "We believe that young people in Assam deserve to be fully prepared for the challenges of an incredibly different and dynamic world of work and our common endeavor will be to achieve that objective." The program curriculum will be designed and administered by two Pearson operating companies: India can and excel. The skills courses will be held in fully and newly equipped classrooms audio-visual aids, and includes lectures by industry experts and visits to factories to familiarize students with real working situations. To ensure no disruption to the formal school day, the skills training will be held after school hours.

Government of India is now eyeing Northeast India for the huge skilled manpower requirement. Growing economy is expected to open new vistas for the students. Even banks is taking interest in the skill development. Axis Bank has inked a MOU with the Gauhati University for offering a co-certification programme in banking for MBA students of the University. The Co-certification programme includes a 40 hour module covering knowledge and skills, principles and practices, legal, regulatory aspects and current trends in banking.

Upon successful completion of the programme and the selection process the students will be absorbed by the Bank in the Assistant Manager grade. Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry of India (Assocham) has decided to set up 250 skill development centres and 10 clusters across Assam. This skill development centres will take into account 50 sectors which the chamber will finalise with the government. The 10 cluster will cater to agro based and food processing industries. Assam has done skill mapping of different sectors of industry. The study report on the skill gap analysis is done by Indian Institute of Management (IIM) Shillong.

Around 14 million people are expected to move out of Northeast between 2011 and 2021 in search of jobs elsewhere in the country, according to National Skill Development Council (NSDC), a public-

According to the study about 3, 75, 311 persons from Northeast migrated to other states in 2007-2008. Majority of the migrants were from Assam, followed by Sikkim and Tripura. The number of migrants has increased since 2000.

According to NSDC's study on development and employment generation potential of Northeast states, between 2011 and 2021 the region will have an increase in jobs for only 2.6 million people. And half of that demand will be in Assam alone, which is about 1, 234, 357. NSDC Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer said that during 2011-2022 there will be supply of 17 million people for the jobs, an excess supply of 14 million job-seekers. He said that this 14 million people will potentially be available for migration out of the region. "If we focus on increasing economic opportunity in Northeast, the migration of potentially 14 million people will decline." He said that potential sectors where people from Northeast will be looking for jobs are beauty and wellness, hospitality, IT, retail and restaurants, music, sports, fashion industry, flight attendants ground staff at airports, nursing and elderly care. He further explained, "the region will generate jobs for 2.6 million persons but would have 16.8 million persons. So there is a need for a twin approach for skill development for both local employment and for those who seek to migrate".

National Institute of Smart Governance (NISG), Hyderabad has inked memorandum of agreement (MoU) with IIM Shillong for setting up centre of excellence for e-governance projects. Both IIM-Shillong and NISG will identify and work for the e-governance project in Meghalaya. Centre for Development of the North Eastern Region (CEDNER), which is IIM Shillong's wing will partner with SAP India in this project. IIM Shillong will provide the advisory support. This project is a CSR initiative of the SAP India where citizen charter including details of citizens, village headman will be available. This project will also enable project monitoring including roads, wells and maintenance of accounts.

Even National Stock Exchange (NSE) and IIM-Shillong has decided to start a two year full time Post Graduate Programme in Financial Markets (PGP-FM). In addition to the two year PG programme, NSE and IIM Shillong will also offer a number of advanced level certifications and Management Development Programmes in financial markets. The PGP-FM course will be a combination of general management subjects and specialised subjects in financial markets such as Financial Valuation and Modeling, Equity Research, Technical Analysis, Derivatives trading strategies and financial engineering. Management development programmes and certification courses, to be offered jointly by NSE and IIM Shillong in financial engineering, risk management, capital markets, and derivatives will help professionals to sharpen their skills.

According to Union Rural Development Minister, Government of India pumps in Rs 34, 000 crore annually to eight Northeast states. He said, "We need economic growth across the length and breadth of the country. There is need for integration of economy of Northeast India with ASEAN countries. These will open new opportunities for the people of
