'SAANSAD ADARSH GRAM YOJANA' TOWARDS HOLISTIC DEVELOPMENT OF VILLAGES

Sudhir Kumar Singh

Keeping in view the holistic development of villages in our country, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi launched the ambitious 'Saansad Adarsh Gram Yojana' on 11th October, 2014, the birth anniversary of Jayprakash Narayan. Under SAGY, each Member of Parliament will take responsibility of developing physical and institutional infrastructure in three villages by 2019. The goal is to develop three Adarsh Grams or model villages by March 2019, of which the first would be developed by 2016. This project aims at providing quality access to basic amenities and opportunities to villagers to help them become self-dependent. Inspired by the principles and values of Mahatma Gandhi, the project places equal stress on nurturing values of national pride, patriotism, community spirit, self-confidence and on developing infrastructure.

The holistic approach towards development makes this project unique and transformative. It stresses on integrated development of the selected village, such as, agriculture, health, education, sanitation, environment protection, livelihood, etc. In addition to infrastructure development, SAGY aims at instilling certain values, i.e. people's participation, Antyodaya, gender equality, dignity of women, social jus-ice, spirit of community service, cleanliness, eco-friendliness, maintaining ecological balance, peace and harmony, mutual co-operation, self-reliance, local self-governance, transparency and accountability in public life, etc., in villages and their people, so that they get transformed into models for others.

The Members of Parliament are the main base of SAGY. Gram Panchayat would be the basic unit for development. It will have a population of 3000-5000 in plain areas and 1000-3000 in hilly, tribal and difficult areas. In districts, where this unit size is not available, Gram Panchayats approximating the desirable population size may be chosen. The number of Gram Panchayats in India is about 265000. The Lok Sabha has 543 MPs and the Rajya Sabha has 250, including 12 nominated members. If each MP adopts three villages, the scheme will be able to develop 2379 'Gram Panchayats' over the next five years. The MP would be free to identify a suitable Gram Panchayat for being developed as Adarsh Gram, other than his/her own village or that of his/her spouse.

The SAGY will be implemented through a village development plan that would be prepared for every identified Gram Panchayat with special focus on enabling every poor household to come out of poverty. The constituency fund, MPLADS, would be available to fill critical financing gaps. The planning process in each village will be a participatory exercise coordinated by the District Collector. In this entire exercise, the MP will play an active facilitating role. Strengthening of local democracy through strong and transparent Gram Panchayats and active Gram Sabhas and facilitating good governance is also an important objective of the SAGY. Women participation in the decision making process will be encouraged.

In fact, the SAGY stresses on holding Mahila Sabhas and Bal Sabhas to discuss women and children specific issues and concerns.

Ensuring universal access to education facilities, adult literacy, e-literacy are also among important goals of SAGY. In addition to education, these villages will have quality health care. The outcomes will include 100 percent immunization, 100 percent institutional delivery, reduced Infant Mortality Rate (IMR), Mother Mortality Rate (MMR), reduction in malnutrition among children, etc.

A separate, national level web based monitoring system will be put in place for the scheme covering all aspects and components. The Rural Development Ministry, Government of India will put in place a specially designed capacity building programme for Government Functionaries at different levels including Gram Panchayats. At the state level, there will be an Empowered committee headed by the

ACTUARY : A GLOBAL PROFESSION

Vinod Kumar Kuttierath

What makes an Insurance company different from other companies? Insurers offer contracts to undertake financial risk of an individual, a group, an asset or an event whereas other companies offer goods and services. While transaction of goods and services offered by non-insurance companies settles with customers immediately, the contracts sold by insurers may last for hours, days, months, years or life time of an individual or of an asset. A customer buying a product of an insurance company transfers all uncertainties and risks of a related event to the insurer and becomes peaceful about adversities and losses likely to happen in future. The insurer, on the other side, undertakes all related risks and uncertainties and assures compensation on the financial loss for the entire time period under the contract.

A risk in the market is an opportunity for insurance companies and the opportunity is managed by professionals called Actuaries, who make financial sense of future. Hence an insurer essentially has to employ actuaries to run their business to manage their highly technical functions. An Actuarial department is thus a necessity for an insurance company; in case of a non-insurance company, though it is desirable to have risk professionals like actuaries to manage their risks, the risk management is still not a priority. However, Actuaries are employed in financial services sector of developed high. The Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) is one of the important areas of specialisation of actuarial science and India too has a good number of Actuaries qualified as CERA (Chartered Enterprise Risk Actuary). Making financial sense of future involves understanding of economy, knowledge of social, cultural and geographical sciences, skills in mathematical, statistical, logical and analytical reasoning, business knowledge and expertise in modelling. These characteristics being independent of geography make Actuary a truly global profession and hence are recognised across all boundaries.

Every country has its own system of developing and recognizing an actuary. In India, the honour of this task to develop actuaries is entrusted to Institute of Actuaries of India. Although there are differences among various countries, all these systems have to meet the standards specified by International Actuarial Association and ognized as equivalent to IFoA, UK and AI, Australia.

EMPLOYMENT OF ACTUARIES, NATURE OF WORK & RESPONSIBILITIES

Actuaries have a role where there is a risk, wherever it is!! Referring to this, an Actuary should be in a better position than any other financial professional to evaluate any project or to advise the viability of any project. Insurance companies, in general deal with all types of short and long term financial risks by offering a range of products. This makes an insurance company vulnerable to financial risks than any other organisation. All insurance and investment products in the market fall within definitions of either life insurance or non-life insurance which mainly cover term assurance, whole life assurance, endowment assurance, annuities and pension products, micro insurance, health insurance, motor insurance, marine insurance, fire insurance, engineering insurance and aviation insurance. There are a number of other forms of non-life insurance as well applicable to any event or any object which carry a risk of loss.

Within an insurance company, actuaries mainly involve in product design & development, pricing, valuation, embedded value calculation, asset-liability modelling and experience analysis. It is critical for the management of any insurance company to aspects of running the business on a regular basis which makes the actuarial department as the centre of core activities of an insurer. In India, there are 52 insurance companies which include 24 life insurers, 23 non-life insurers and 5 standalone health insurers. A large insurance company employs more than 30 actuarial resources ranging from student members to Fellow (fully qualified) members for meeting its requirements and smaller companies employ in the range of 20-25 members.

Re-insurance (arrangement by which Insurers transfer a part of their risk to another insurer called re-insurer) is another area that requires actuarial expertise. India has only one public sector re-insurance company GIC Re; however, there are foreign re-insurance companies having liaisoning offices and employing actuarial candidates.

Valuation of terminal benefits of a workforce is another important area where actuaries play a major role. This includes valuation of pension, gratuity and leave encashment of employees in a company which is a statutory provision in many countries. There are good number of consulting actuaries and actuarial firms in India delivering services in employee benefits area. There are quite a good number of actuarial resources employed in all consultancy services. Other institutions employing actuarial students include rating agencies, analytics firms and wealth management companies.

India has been proven as a hub for actuarial outsourcing. Many global companies have set up their global and regional business centres to carry out their work in a cost effective manner. Most of these off-shoring/outsourcing units cater to UK or US companies and can be found in both insurance and pension related work. India has become a rapidly growing centre of expertise in delivering actuarial services for most of the developed markets like Eastern and Western Europe, Asia-Pacific and many other countries and is offering a number of mass employment opportunities to all levels of actuarial candidates.

There are many actuaries qualified from India working in other countries in Asia-Pacific regions and UK, catering to the needs of the region as well.

Growth of insurance is directly related to the demographic and economic profile of the country. With average age of an Indian close to 28 and economy poised to grow at higher levels, India demonstrates immense potential for growth in the insurance sector and many more companies are expected to start their operations in the near future. The actuarial profession in India, anticipating increased demand for actuaries in the near future have designed programs to attract potential students to pursue actuarial science leading to a rewarding career. In terms of compensation levels, it varies significantly according to Industry, experience levels, responsibilities and geographies; however, an experienced Actuary in the senior level position of an insurance company in India earns not less than a crore as their annual compensation.
