EMPLOYABILITY AND INDIA: FORECASTS FOR 2015

Dr. Sarmistha Sarma

Employment is an issue of concern for every country. The better the rate of employment in any nation better is the overall economic condition. But of late, policy makers have started thinking about the quality of human resource a country might have. Here comes the term "employability". Employability is defined as the development of skills, abilities and personal attributes that enhance student's capability to secure rewarding and satisfied outcomes in their economic, social and community lives. Businesses around the world are reporting a skills shortage epidemic that is hindering the growth prospects of the nations. According to the Global Talent Index 2015 almost four in ten (39 percent) businesses around the world are struggling to recruit the right people, with a lack of technical skills cited as the primary problem (64 percent). The concern is that this lack of talent will dampen business productivity, ultimately threatening future growth and profitability. In fact for about 3/4th Indian businesses, one of the primary challenges faced is the shortage of technical or specific skills. India is set to play a pivotal role in the world due to the presence of active population. With an expected population of 1.3 billion by 2020, 60% of which would be in the working age group (15-59 years) as per the Boston Consulting Group Report, India is going to have a surplus of active population - about 47 million people. China is a formidable competitor yet with its existing one child policy, it is down by 10 million. Here lies the demographic divident for India when major portion of its population is active (in the working age 15-50 years). Now with the above mentioned implications to the future of world in general and to India in particular it is important to analyze where India stands in terms of skills at present.

Status of employability 2014

According to the India Skills Report 2014 published by Confederation of Indian Industries (CII), Wheebox and People strong suggest that only 37% of the graduates of India are employable. The report also says that 38% of the women candidates are employable and 34% of the men are found to be employable. The top 10 states in terms of employable male candidates are- Tamil Nadu, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, Andhra Pradesh, Haryana, Karnataka, Orissa and West Bengal while the top 10 states with employable female population are- Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, Delhi, Haryana, Karnataka, Orissa and West Bengal. Besides it is found that the top states where major part of the 'employable pool' comes from are: Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, Andhra Pradesh, Haryana, Karnataka, Orissa, and West Bengal.

Further the report suggested top 10 cities where maximum employable candidates are available. These cities were Ajnala, Dhariwal, Ponneri, Akola, Fatehgarh, New Delhi, Coimbatore, and Madurai. Most of these cities are part of the top states except for a city that is part of Maharashtra.

There seems to be a paradox in the employment scenario of India in present times. On the one hand there is the dearth of necessary skill in the job market; on the other hand there is the "demographic bulge"- the millions of Indian youth who will enter the job market. This has the chance of weighing the nation down and hinder the growth of the Gross Domestic Product (GDP). The forecasts suggests that by 2020, India would have a working population of about 0.8 billion out of the total population of 1.3 billion.

India and Global Talent Index 2015

Here it is important to understand the place of Indian human resource as against the global counterparts. The Global talent Index reports 2015 highlights that developing employees is the focus in the Asian nations of China and India. The report says 60% of companies here are devoting more resources to development than they were two years ago. In the global talent market India and China are regarded as the future to watch out for. Because these markets are relatively new and growing so fast, an adequate pipeline of ready-made employees equipped to step into the breach is simply not available. And as their economies carry on expanding at a rapid pace, workers with the right training and experience become increasingly desirable commodities. In the Global Talent Index 2011 India was ranked 35th with a score of 40.5 and in Global Talent Index 2015 India retained its rank with a small increase in score to 42.2 and a change from 2011-2015 standing at +1.7. The top 3 nations in the Global Talent Index 2011 were United States at 74.2, Denmark at 64.7 and Finland at 63.2. These nations have retained their place in the Global Talent Index 2015 with United States at 74.5, Denmark at 65.4 and Finland at 64.2. Among all nations in the Global Talent Index 2015, China registers the largest score improvement in 2015. This is attributed to Beijing's increasing willingness to embrace foreign workers, a change in approach triggered in part by the impending decline of young indigenous workers entering the labor market.

GET YOUR CAREER DECISION RIGHT

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

In schools and colleges we're taught many subjects but it is surprising that many of life lessons are hardly included in the curriculum. Consider the case of choosing a career. In very few cases we can find institutions or courses offering formal career guidance. So more often than not people have to make uninformed career choices.

Choosing a career is one among the most significant milestones in our lives and one should be fully equipped to make such an important decision. The world today is much different from the world of yester years. Our country has also changed a lot in the past few decades. With increased globalization and liberalization, there is vibrancy in the economy. Industrialisation is gaining strength and new jobs are being created. The service industry is also expanding, generating employment for millions of people. For many corporations of the world employees' nationality is a non-issue now and they are willing to hire persons of any nationality as long as they meet the required criteria. Job seekers are moving across cities and nations to fulfil their career aspirations. More and more organisations are becoming global and diversity is being encouraged. This has brought much more opportunities in realm of careers, at the same time has made the job of career selection a lot challenging.

Job or career?
The more clear a person is about her

Many times people don't differentiate between a job and a career. A job is an assignment which may be taken for a long or short period. It is more of a position, designation or role. When someone says that she is a computer operator in public works department, she is talking of a job. Career has a wider canvas. A person may choose a career in banking, defence, human resources (HR) or in any other area/ organisation. Our long term planning should be for career. Of course, we'll be learning from our experiences and may be required to change our career strategy, in some cases.

Career and personality

Ideally your career should match with your personality. Every career requires few personal traits. Before we decide to enter a particular career, we should find out if we have the matching personality. For example in selling, marketing or public relations employees are expected to be extroverts because the requirement is like that. If the required traits are lacking traits. It is possible to bring changes in our personality. It requires willingness, efforts and discipline. Around you, you can find people who have brought changes in their habits and personality after they felt a need for this.

Get the question right

It is true that people work for a living. But this doesn't give us the complete picture. In most of the cases money can be one of the motives, not the only motive. The other motives can be understood when we ask this question-'What are the things I look forward to in a career?' Is this money, power, prestige, complete job security, freedom, growth opportunities or something else? There are many bright students from prestigious institutions like IITs and IIMs who under campus selections, were offered fat financial packages by national and global companies. They could have been assured of a comfortable life by accepting such attractive offers. But these students preferred to choose the path of entrepreneurship, of being on one's own which is considered to be risky and demanding. A person who wants to go into academics, supposedly is not a power seeker. Some people seek quick promotions. You must know your preferences.

Explore options

You know what you want. The wiser thing now will be to explore options. Take the example of a career in banking. For many people it means working in a nationalized bank. But opportunities are also available

SELECTION PROCESS

Selection to OCES / DGFS - 2015 is a 2-step process: Screening to short-list candidates followed by Selection Interviews of the short-listed candidates. There is a separate selection process for each of the disciplines listed in Table-1 except for RSE (code 44), which is available only as an additional Training Scheme option to applicants belonging to Physics and Chemistry disciplines (codes 41 and 42).

Screening for Selection Interview is based on two alternative methods:

(a) Online Test: It will be conducted in all of the eight Engineering disciplines (codes 21-27, 29) and in the five Science disciplines (codes 41-43 and 45-46) at nearly thirty cities spread across India. The Online Screening Test for OCES/DGFS-2015 will be held in March, 2015. Travel Allowance is not paid for appearing in it. Candidates taking the Online Test in one of the eight Engineering disciplines or one of the five Science disciplines will be able to choose their centre as well as the date and time of the session in which they wish to appear for the Online Test, subject to availability. Allocation of Online Test slot to candidates will be done on a first come first served basis. Candidates may refer to Instructions on the Online Application Portal for details in this regard.

(b) GATE Score: Candidates will be screened in for Selection Interview on the basis of a valid GATE-2014 or GATE-2015 Score.

Candidates, in all disciplines have the option of utilizing either one or both of the screening avenues detailed above. Cut-off GATE scores for screening into Selection Interviews will be decided only after the Online Test has concluded and candidates are therefore advised to maximize their chances of being screened into the Selection Interview stage by availing both of the screening avenues detailed above.

Students graduating with a Masters Degree from University of Mumbai - Department of Atomic Energy Centre for Excellence in Basic Sciences (UM-DAE CBS) and National Institute of Science Education and Research (NISER), Bhubaneswar, and whose Cumulative Grade Performance Average (CGPA) is greater than or equal to 7.5 on a scale of 10 will directly be screened into the Selection Interview stage, provided they meet all other eligibility requirements of the OCES/DGFS-2015 program. Such candidates should first submit their application for the OCES/DGFS-2015 program on the Online Application Portal and subsequently forward their details through the Directors of their Institutes. As the final CGPA is not known till the end of the tenth semester, students from UM-DAE CBS and NISER are advised to appear for the Online Test and/or upload a valid GATE-2014 or GATE-2015 score, to maximize their chances of being screened into the Selection Interview stage.

Selection Interviews of short-listed candidates in all disciplines except Geology and Geophysics will be conducted in Mumbai. Interviews in Geology and Geophysics will be held in Hyderabad. Outstation applicants travelling for Interview will be paid to-and-fro second-class sleeper train fare by shortest route or actual fare, whichever is less. Selection Interviews are tentatively scheduled to be held in May-June, 2015. The list of candidates short-listed for Selection Interview will be posted on the Online Application Portal in the second week of April, 2015. Short-listed candidates will be able to choose an interview slot, based on availability, on the Online Application Portal, in the second week of April, 2015 onwards. Final Selection is solely on the basis of performance in Selection Interview, subject to medical fitness.

The option of communicating preferences of Training School location and Training Scheme shall be offered to the selected candidates after the declaration of the final results.

Among the BRIC nations (Brazil, Russia, India and China), Brazil has also shown significant progress to 2015, with employment growing quickly, expenditure on education rising and the language skills of the workforce improving. The report further states that India's own rapid rise in employment opportunities is offset by a continuing poor standard of mainstream education, ensuring that its overall performance remains relatively unaltered. In terms of the quality of its young workers, India is now becoming competitive with the developed world as per the report. The rapid pace of economic growth means that Indian employers will still have a tough job on their hands finding the right people. It is predicted by the Global Talent Index 2015 Report that "Despite the great increase in supply, the shortage of critical talent will only increase. GDP is currently growing at 9%, and rural India is suddenly opening up, sucking in a lot of talent."

Focus for 2015

For the year 2015 it is expected that there would be proactive sourcing with increasing Indian companies looking for passive candidates i.e. is a qualified candidate for employment who isn't necessarily looking for work, but who may be interested if the right job comes along. According to LinkedIn's Annual Recruitment Trends for 2015 India ranks 3rd (69%) compared to other countries in terms of hiring passive candidates. Companies in the US (83%) and China (72%) are also engaged in hiring passive candidates. Globally, 75% of professionals consider themselves "passive" yet only 61% of companies consider recruiting passive talent. Global Talent Index 2015 says that "Talent shortages have made the Asian market pay more flexible and dynamic than in developed countries, with companies not allowing themselves to be bound by a rigid salary structure when looking to recruit the right person for the role." The report observes that: - First the overall quality of the workforce still leaves much room for improvement. Second, demographic changes will precipitate a steep fall in the number of new entrants into the labor market. Third, growing local companies are now realistic competitors for trained talent. "Compared to five years ago, they are much more attractive to Chinese and Indian managers." Therefore there is much to look forward to in the coming year 2015.

old age and new age private sector banks. Then there are foreign banks, cooperative banks and regional rural banks. A global career is possible with World Bank and Asian Development Bank, of course with requisite qualifications and experience. If you know all the options then only you can aim for the best option. If somebody wants a banking career only within public sector that also should be clear. In certain fields people know the opportunities available at state level though there may be better opportunities at national and international level.

To choose right and avoid disappointment it is necessary to do some research and gather information about the career stream or the organization which you're willing to consider. One shouldn't be superficially impressed or caught by the glamour. Don't assume. Find facts. Working in five star hotel or airlines may appear to be highly attractive for many. It is better to know the exact nature of work, work conditions and the future opportunities. In career magazines and electronic media you can find interviews of people from diverse fields giving relevant input. You can also talk to people who are already working in those industries or areas in order to get a clear picture. One should not only look for the opportunities but should also be aware of challenges in a career. In terms of organisations it is advisable to know its reach, growth opportunities, transferability and other human resource policies which have some relevance for you. Open up, discuss with people and you may come across valuable information for your own benefit.

Consider employers' expectations

While choosing a career you shouldn't consider your interests only. Employment is a contract in which all parties have some expectations. An employer hires you to accomplish business goals. You will be selected if you're found capable of making such contribution. If a person is looking for lesser work, minimum responsibilities with usual expectations of good pay, benefits and job security; she is not being fair or reasonable. A career has to be undertaken to perform, produce and give results with adequate responsibility. This is a genuine expectation of the employer and has to be respected.

Expand your horizon

Although things are changing, there are some young people in villages and small towns who are not willing to move out on one pretext or the other. The human tendency is to like to remain in one's comfort zone. But according to researchers in human development, real growth happens when you move out of your comfort zone. So prepare yourself to think big and face challenges. Don't put unnecessary restrictions on yourself. Look for the opportunities by expanding your horizon and make best of your situation. Often our narrow and limiting thinking becomes the biggest road block in our path of progress. It is necessary to evaluate our inhibitions and develop a progressive mindset. You've to create a future for yourself.

There is no perfect or ideal career. You should focus on a career which is best suited to your interests and aspirations. The current trend is to choose a career one is passionate about. The old saying goes, 'If you love what you do, you don't work a day in your life.' If you're passionate about your job, it becomes an outlet for expression, a way to shape your environment that makes you fulfilled. If not in the immediate term you can consider this your career strategy in the long term. In our society, generally a person's career determines her identity and social status. While choosing a career this aspect can be borne in mind. But more important is the fact that our working life lasts for 35-40 years and if we make a wrong choice of career it can be a cause of long lasting frustration which may lead to other problems. By choosing a right career we derive immense satisfaction from our work life. It also helps to realize our potential.
